E.D. & B.C. RAILWAY STEEL HAS REACHED TOWN OF SAWRIDGE

Means All Railway and Waterway Transportation From Ground to Edmonton

The head of steel on the Edmonton, Dunvegan & B.C. Railway has reached the town of Sawridge, on the north side of the Columbia River, opposite of the west, he said, was a good material for making permanent roads. It is more important that the government should investigate the possibility of creating a road system and making practical use of them as a road building material.

The speaker received the support of A. Dewitt Foster, King's N.S., and Dr. A. Thompson, Yukon. The leader said that the railway could not have been able to get capital interests because of the lack of transportation, but that the railway would go into the north. He urged that the report of the official who had investigated the matter be made public, as reports in general were printed exceedingly.

Mr. Coderre said that samples of tar sands had been secured by an official of the department and that they were sent to the Bureau of Oil in New York. The results would be published as soon as possible. He agreed that the railway should be built, and promptly and promised that they would in the future.

Mr. Coderre said the action of the department in having these tar sands investigated, though there had been no investigation, was a report theorem. Two years would elapse before anything practical could be done, but the desirability of prompt action owing to the value of this material for road making.

Mr. Coderre announced that three parties from the mines department would be sent to Northern Alberta in the summer of next year. In Northern Alberta along the Athabasca River and east of it, a long distance to the north, work will be done and all the machinery will be off the ice in about three days, he said. The machinery will then have been forwarded from Edmonton.

IN HOUSE OF COMMONS

Ottawa, March 12th.

The demand for an iron-ore bounty from the Conservative side of the House on Tuesday was followed by a demand for free implements from the Liberal side on Wednesday. These two demands and the support respectively accorded them accurately define the position of the two sides of the House on tariff matters. On the one hand an unprofitable industry was to be maintained as a burden on the other, while on the all the country's wealth-producing industry was to be relieved from an unnecessary burden. The opposing policies of restriction and expansion could not have been better represented.

On the motion to go into supply, Mr. Knowles moved in amendment that the time had arrived when the interests of Canada as a whole, the duty on agricultural implements should be forthwith removed. After debate this motion was defeated by a Government majority of 38.

On the Government side only the Premier and the Solicitor General spoke. Both specifically refused to discuss the merits of the question. The Premier called upon his followers to vote the amendment down as a motion of want of confidence, and incidentally conveyed to his followers the idea that it should not be discussed by them. The Solicitor General had a little difficulty of his own arising out of the fact that in the session of 1910-11 he had moved for a reduction in the duties on agricultural implements which carried his motion by a very slender and well reasoned speech. In the succeeding elections of 1911 he had, of course, opposed the reciprocity agreement which provided for such reductions, and now as a member of the Government he was compelled to face the necessity of denying his former professionality by his vote. At length, when all the other members of the cabinet confined their remarks to criticism of alleged inconsistencies of members of the Opposition on the question.

The amendment moved by W. E. Knowles, of Moose Jaw, was seconded by Levi Thomson, of Ky Apelle, and was supported by Neely, of Humboldt; McCrory, of Estevan; and Mr. S. J. Scott, of Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario; Mr. G. W. Evans, of Wellington, Ont.; Hughes, of King, P.E.I.; Lancelot, of Laprairie, Que.; Beland, of Beauce, Que., and Alberta, and White, of Alberta. The argument for abolition of the duties was divided into two parts—the one relating to the condition of the implement industry, and the other to the necessity of reducing the burdens of the farmers.

In the first, the policy of protection was intended only for the benefit of infant industries, to enable them to hold the home market until they became well established, and that Canadian implements were now being sold in all the important agricultural countries in the world in open competition. The United States was Canada's great rival in this field, and the Canadian government, in its efforts to protect its industry, notably Coksholt plows, a considerable business had been done by the Canadian company in the United States, while there was a duty of fifteen per cent against them. Now that the United States duty had been abolished, there was no reason of protective policy why the duty should be maintained, and the duty was to compel the Canadian manufacturer to pay more for his machinery than the manufacturer sold it for in other countries. In the case of the Cockshott Plow Company, the plow which was sold at $600 in Winnipeg was sold in Minneapolis for $502, after paying the duty binders and mowers were sold more cheaply in England and Canada.

The Canadian manufacturer was given a drawback on his imports, but had practically free trade in what he required, and should not object to giving his customers free trade prices on what he sold them. The increased cost of implements in Canada over what they were in the United States constituted a serious burden on agriculture, while under existing circumstances needed substantial relief. The Government had refused to open the United States market to the farmer, and the industry was in consequence depressed, with serious results to the whole country. Even if free implements were granted, it would not compensate for the loss of the open market, but it would at least be a measure of relief, and as such should be granted.

THE CIVIC GAZETTE IS DECLARED TO BE WASTE OF MONEY

Action to Be Taken to Quash Resolution of Council Authorizing Its Publication

DECISION TO PUBLISH IT DUE TO PERSONAL FEELING

(From Evening Edition)

Declaring that it is a waste of money to publish the Civic Gazette, the editor of the paper has decided to stop publication of the newspaper.

Mr. Newell appeared before Chief Justice Harvey yesterday and it was suggested that he had noticed the paper was not being published.

Mr. Newell took his ground that the publication of a newspaper is a waste of money, and that the newspaper covers civic affairs only and that it is largely a personal pleasure to him to publish the paper.

Pictures taken on this famous expedition will be shown at the Empire Theatre on Saturday, and twice tomorrow and Saturday.

WITH PAUL BAILEY IN AFRICAN JUNGLES

There is no more famous big game sportsman in America today, barring, of course, Theodore Roosevelt, than Paul Bailey, young man of wealth who conquers the animals of the far north before venturing into African jungles. Mr. Bailey equipped a costly expedition, and with J. C. Hanes, an expert photographer, who has presented his pictures on his trip through the Arctic regions and two big game hunters, penetrated the most dangerous regions of the wildest in all Africa—for the purpose of scientific exploration and the collection of specimens. Mr. Bailey, of the Smithsonian Institute, accompanied the expedition to present specimens to the museum. It was during the time of the collecting, when it was found desirable to capture the animals alive, and, with Dr. Sebastian and Allen, the demonstrators of modern dancing will show just how the natives form a contrast to nothing that is offensive in any of the scenes and thrilling situations, apparently appealing panoramas of emotion.

The story itself is human, appealing, impressive. Aided by the colorful characterization of Cecilia Loftus in "A Lady of Quality," and the famous Burnett's famous romantic drama, "A Lady of Quality" is significant.

It is impossible to describe in words as the time remains of the silent play.

THURSDAY, MARCH 19, 1914

Just where is the justice or public advantage of legalizing the Canadian implement-makers to charge $680 in Winnipeg for an article which he sells in Minneapolis for $62?

A local produce dealer says a half million dollars' worth of eggs were imported into Alberta from the United States last year. The egg business has got wrong end to Alberta should export eggs to the United States, by the car-load.

A lady who appeared in police court, on an altogether decent matter, finally informed the court that her husband "can't run the game, or had something to do with the game" at a licensed club. To a Sherlock Holmes that remark might suggest something.

Only ten thousand copies of the municipal gazette are being printed. There are about eight thousand ratepayers of the city, and probably an equal number of unfranchised tenants. Seemingly nothing can be done, but the truth is to be left out in the distribution of the official record of what their representatives at the city hall are saying and doing.

A man convicted in Supreme Court of living on the proceeds of vice was sentenced to six weeks in jail. Unless there were mitigating circumstances a much more severe sentence would not have been proportioned to the crime. Commercialized vice, with its logical development of enforced vice will not be wiped out by "big boss" is simply pushed out of existence.

Once more—the sale of city bonds. The facts are these: The city gets from the Imperial Bank $4.11 net for the issue. The bank also agrees to pay the interest on the bonds from the time of issue last year until the time of sale to the bonds the city to pay for the balance of the year. The "benefit" of the new arrangement does not however operate to raise the net profit received by the city for the bonds. It only saves the city from having to pay interest on the bonds for that portion of the year during which the bonds were still in the city's possession. In other words, the city pays the interest from the time it gets the money. And it pays at the rate of 35.60 per cent for each $94.11 received, or 3.31 per cent.

Canadians on both sides of politics will read with a sense of humiliation the paragraph in which the First Lord of the Admiralty apologized for Canada's failure so far to take any part in her own naval defense and that of British interests at large. They will note, too, with hope his statement that there is a prospect of this nation being called and some Canadian leader will be called to command hoof to the approach of Parliament. If the Government have finally been shamed into a decision to allow the country to assume its responsibility, there will be ready response from the Liberals to any scheme consistent with the requirements of the present and future, and conformable to the dignity and circumstances of a "going-to-war" self-supporting Dominion. The basis for such proposal may be found in the resolution introduced into Parliament five years ago this month by the present Minister of Trade and Commerce, seconded and supported by Mr. Borden, accepted as amended by the Government of the day and passed by the House without a dissenting voice.

For producing up the police department and heading off the attempt to resurrect the fight promotion business in Edmonton the acting Deputy Attorney General deserves commendation. Chief Laney has also gone on record as viewing these pre-arranged boxing bouts as only the "thin end of the wedge," which would lead to the prize fight. Both departments are thereby pledged to see that there is no renewal of the business.

Figures presented to Parliament show that farm implements—binders, reapers, mowers, plows, seeders and cultivators—were imported into Canada and exported out of Canada to the following amounts in the years indicated:

Imports.....$1,101,414
1910-11.....$1,024,473
1911-12.....$2,657,569
1912-13.....$1,183,999
1913-14.....$1,312,254

The records of four years thus show that the Canadian implement-makers sends into foreign markets three dollars' worth of machinery for every two dollars' worth sent into Canada by foreign makers. This particular one of our industrial "infants" has surely reached a stage development where it is time for the home market to open up foreign competition by an exclusive tariff. Despite the Canadian maker's natural modesty, it is the foreigners who need protection against him, rather than he against them.

With the coming of spring the opportunities for employment will be increasing from now on, in the city and out, and building operations will be resuming here and elsewhere, railway contractors will be taking on men, and farmers in every direction will be looking for help. This change in the situation will afford an opportunity to redjust matters in relation to city work so as to relieve the taxpayer of any unnecessary burden and so as to give what employment the city has to offer to residents of the city. In this manner a large amount of the tax money will be spent in providing free board for those who demanded it, or employment for those who were in need of it and of this sum the lion's share will drift into the outsider who falls into the railway grade or other place where he had been engaged during the same period.

Now comes the thought recently as the result of vigorous public protest against this method of doing business, and the time is now at hand for carrying the improvement all the way through.

The city is in no position to supply work during the summer months merely for the sake of providing wages, and the work which has to be done should be given to those whose home is in the city and who is a regular factor in its commercial and social life.

In this list it is stated that seventy-three motion picture theatres are in operation in the city, and that we are not striving for nor have we the least sympathy in a wide open competition. Our opinion seems to understand it. We merely want the Sunday opening of conference halls and theatres.

So do we take this stand from a commercial viewpoint, the private company, which, as the result of vigorous public protest against this method of doing business, and the time is now at hand for carrying the improvement all the way through.

The city is in no position to supply work during the summer months merely for the sake of providing wages, and the work which has to be done should be given to those whose home is in the city and who is a regular factor in its commercial and social life.

With the opening of the spring season everything that savors of "force work" should be cut out.

This only goes to show that what exists in the city is not induced by the people on Sundays. What then are these people to do when they are asked to do what is surely unchristian agitation for an open Sunday.

Is the word unchristian absolutely? Let us see. Aver: means to turn from, so aman must mean to turn from his religion.

I ask a brief meditation or thoughtful examination into this request, which the Temperance and Moral Reform League and if directed to the attorney-general, and if he would care to do so, I care nothing for the present and who care nothing for their "hobbies." Are they to be forced to a sermon in which they have not the slightest interest? Are they to be forced to a sermon in which they have not the slightest interest? Is there any man in this world who can say his own opinion is that any reason why one set should force another to do what they do? Is there any man in this world who can say his own way of thinking, regardless of the others' feeling in the matter, is the right way?

The alternative of this idea of going to church for those who are members of the church is to close the doors on Sundays, and, if they have no homes, to get out in the fresh air and walk in the parks and other rooms in the rest or is it hunting?

So much for Mr. Richardson's letter. He has got off scot-free, but Mr. Leitch's appeal on behalf of the mothers to be dealt with. He asks that they be given a hearing, the truth unmasking agitation for an open Sunday, advisedly! He must certainly do not feel it is a sufficient punishment for the offense of which he is accused.

and many non-residents who are on the pay-roll should be plainly told that they cannot be kept in the city's employ to the refusal of residents who need the wages. There are plenty of men living in the city permanently to do all the work the city will require done, and quite all the city can afford to have done during the present summer. The course of humanity is to put this situation fairly before all concerned and to eliminate the non-resident employee at the turn of the season when his chances of getting employment in the ordinary channels are best.

Current Comment

Edmonton's Spring Fever

Montreal Times of March 12th.—The city council of Edmonton has decided to publish a municipal gazette.

The decision was taken at the voting of Mayor McNamara. Apparently the paper is to be started to give the public a copy of all of the stalling reports of the council meetings.

The cost of the paper is $11,759 for the balance of the year.

The ratifiers will pay that sum, although the paper will be sold to the public at 10 cents a copy.

It is the opinion of the editor that this body could repeat that order prohibiting the operation of gambling houses in the city.

We were of the opinion that their steps would be necessary, but it must be before the election.

At 10 a.m. on Saturday, Mr. Leitch took the trouble to acquaint himself of the reception accorded him by the people of the city. He was received with a very friendly greeting.

He states that people do not like to be seen on the Sabbath. That was an oversight on his part and he did not realize it. He was told by the numbers of the people who patronized a local picture theatre which operated on the Sabbath.

He was asked if he would like to go to picture shows three times a week, and under present conditions that privilege is denied them—Yours etc.

President Edmonton Sunday

movement to its present proportions, and to date we have only one member who is in any way connected with the movement.

As regards to the antislavery of our efforts toward the Temperance and Moral Reform League, let me say that this body, or at least the members of this body, are not the ones to whom we tried to speak to on the Sabbath. We did not think that this was a case for moral reform, instead we tried to speak to the members of the Sabbath. The Temperance and Moral Reform League, or the members of this body, are not the ones to whom we tried to speak to on the Sabbath.

An open Sunday, not for the practical employer, but for the man who works for him, says the practical employer, they do not care for the Sabbath, they do not care for the Sabbath.

REGINA DEFENDS THE CUP :- QUEBEC BEAT VANCOUVER

ATHLETICS
THE RING
BOWLING*Allan Cup Will Spend Next Summer at Regina*

Victoria's Won Second Game From Grand Mere by 4 to 1—Score on Round Was 10-5—Seats Were at a Premium, Some Being Sold at $8.00 Apie ce—Ice Was Hard

By Martin Lester, Wire. — "We will start just where we left on Monday night and they can't beat us when we are playing that kind of game," said Captain Austin Creswell of the Victoria's tonight just before the game began. "The Victoria's have won their nine times of amateur hockey championships of the world by beating the Grand Mere seven by the decisive score of four to one. That score means the total record now stands five to five demonstrating the superiority of the Vics beyond the possibility of doubt."

The great crowd was tremendously enthusiastic when the ball rang for full time and the Vics were cheered off the ice on the shoulders of their supporters.

Wondrous!

The Vics simply proved Grand Mere were little better than fish. The Vics fought gamely but were beaten in the first five minutes of the game and the ball was held in the Victoria's attack at times savored of the desperation but they could not penetrate the Vics' defense. The play of the Vics' forward line was so strong that few of the easterners' rushes after the first ten minutes were either equal to or as far as the Vics and Ritchie for the longest. McCallum in goal was playing a terrific game and the Vics were comfortable. The goal the challengers did secure was a long shot almost from centre ice which was by McCallum in the last minute of play.

Tactical Mistake

The half time score was three to no for the Victoria's. The Vics were there equal so far as scoring was concerned in the second half. But the play was all to the Victoria's and Captain Creswell's defense held goal and Ritchie's defense play held the score down. The Grand Mere team was unable to get into the game on the defensive in the second half while the Vics had everything to gain and nothing to lose. They put their entire team up to the Vics' goal.

Outside Looking In

The second game was largely remembered as a sporting event in Regina. Those in the number slightly over 1,500, while outside of the rink and in front of the newspaper offices, uttered about the more who were gathered.

Some Big Prices

The game opened promptly on time but half an hour before the rink was filled to capacity. An high as sixteen dollars was the price paid which is fair proof of the enthusiasm of those packed inside the small structure. The ice was considerably better than the previous game and toward the end of each half it became covered with a sticky slush which checked the speed of the players and made the puck difficult to carry.

Vics Start Fast

The Vics played the game from the start. Inside the first minutes of three or four short were pounced on in Gusto. This was followed by a fast attack. The Vics' attack was not to be denied and McCallum in the first half was off Abbott and the puck fast rushed and Abbott put the puck fast Gauthier in two minutes. The Vics were impressed for a moment but the Vics' defense relieved and in another minute the Vics were again crossing Gauthier's line. The speed of the game at this point was terrific with the Vics showing absolute control. In the second half the Vics again put another past the Grand Mere net guardian and the game was on ice.

Ritchie Started

With the Vics' lead the Grand Mere team seemed to come to life again for a short period. But the Vics held off the attack and through the Vics' attack could not themselves penetrate the challengers' defense. Ritchie played a true master game and the puck was also well handled by Stevens who checked hard and Hoffman whose back checking was easily the best.

VANCOUVER, March 18.—Walker St. Louis beat Miller, 465; O. Kalush, Rochester, 445; Hess, Chicago, 445.

The Vics began playing more of a defensive game although always they were the stronger on the grand stage. The hand ended without further scoring and the Vics let the ice with a margin of two to the round.

The Second Half

In the second half the play was much the same. The Vics' attack was plainly beaten but the Vics were taking no chances and contented themselves with smothering the attack and occasionally finding the goals on their own account. McCallum got the first after ten minutes' play, and the Vics' attack was a see-saw with Ritchie doing the bulk of the work for the challenges and the Vics' attack was the spirit of victory plainly stamped on their countenance. Just before the half time the Vics' attack was past McCallum. He lifted a long shot almost from centre ice and it slipped by a very much surprised net guard. Ritchie and others worked hard
